

Guy Braunstein
Head of Clinical Development

Guy Braunstein is a French citizen with an MD and is specialized in respiratory medicine. He has a PhD in life science.

Guy joins Actelion from Merck Serono, where he was the Chief Medical Office, having served for 4 years before that as Chief Medical Officer at Serono International. His more than 20 years in the pharmaceutical industry spans a wide range of experience from affiliate Medical Director and Global Medical Affairs through to Research and Development roles. Guy has worked in both large pharmaceutical and biotech environments in companies such as, Astra, Glaxo-Wellcome, GSK, Fisons, Rhône Poulenc Rorer and Chiron. During this time he built experience in multiple therapeutic areas, in particular respiratory, inflammation and autoimmune disorders, multiple sclerosis and oncology.

Guy joined Actelion in July 2009 as Head of Clinical Development.